

Long, Heavy Hair?

Then treat your hair well. See that it is properly fed. Growth of every kind demands proper food. Starved hair splits at the ends, turns prematurely gray, keens short and dry. Then feed your hair. Feed it with proper food, a regular hair-food. Feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. Thus help nature all you possibly can toward giving you rich, heavy, luxuriant hair. Ask your doctor about your hair and about Ayer's Hair Vigor. Follow his advice.

Experience has long since demonstrated the fact that such a publie body is not enough to be a clearingcouse for industrial statistics or to b a promotion agency: its energies should be foscused on everything that relates to make the community good-richer in its resources, more widely known for its advantages and distinguished for the care of its people. It will be seen, therefore, that the most important element in successful civic endeavor is the development of a spirit of cooperation. With us, we have failed to take the position that all our civic needs are but component parts of the same gen eral problem of civic betterment. What might have been considered good organization twenty years ago would not be able to stand criticism in the not be able to stand criticism in the light of modern methods. is no reason why we cannot achieve the same success by marshaling our civic forces into one strong representative public body. The growing importance of our Islands demands our careful thought for the near future. We have perplexing problems of city planning, legislation, sanitation, and numerous others equally important yet to solve, some of which our mainland communities are not confronted with. Our ell-matic advantages are well known abroad to be unsurpassed, but we must not leave too much to nature. It can be expected also that we shall receive a full share of the benefits accruing from the opening of the Panams Canal. Let us ask ourselves, are we preparing the way? Gentlemen, we must take advantage of the present opportunity, by every means in our power, and so concentrate our forces now that we may, as a community, reach the very highest mark of civic excellence.''

Charity's Viewpoint.

James A. Rath, of the Palama settlement work followed Mr. Field. He also spoke of the work being done by the Cleveland chamber of commerce, and the city is char-took up the matter of the city's char-ities. "In Cleveland, he continued, that is being done out at Fort Ruger "the work of that chamber of com-merce has been cooperative. It has done away with a vast deal of duplication or overlapping of charities. Those of us here, who are compelled to go about to many others also here with was aided by a private citizen at Morequests that your put your hands in your pockets for charity, realize keenly of good luck, and not likely to happen the great amount of duplication that again unless some definite plan is pregoes on every day, in the charitable sented and followed closely.

For Love of Honolulu. I should like to see, not only my work at Palama, but the work at Kaknako and elsewhere taken over by some such an organization as is here suggested. Specialization is today the keynote of success in any line of endeavor. It is social work as to men in any other walk. In two words can be summed

I questioned him and asked for analysis; what had brought about this change. He had no satisfactory answer. On reaching Rochester, I too noted the difference, and on inquiry learned that a few men from the chamber of commerce had put up the money to hire a professional sec-retary, what might be called a town dynamo; that all this change was the result of the initiative of this one man's work. I don't remember his name, and I was told that he did all his work through others, but that Rochester was now reaching out in every direction; that it was determined to be a city of homes for laboring men, and that every body was pulling to-gether for a greater Rochester, "It is evident to all the business men of Honolula that the special work of H. P. Wood has been of incalculable value. So much more is known about Honolulu today than ever before. This illustrates what one man quietly, unestentationaly working along one line can accomplish. He then suggested that a strong committee be appointed to formulate plans for the organization of the character.

This was afterward done by the resulution introduced by Frank C. Atherton, which embodied practically all the sug-gestions made by Mr. Smith.

I know that they are far beyond the protecting of the mere business interests of the community. Let us see to it that we incorporate in our idea something that will appeal to the highest ideals of those who have the welfare of this city at heart.

Soldier's Message.

There was a short halt in the talk-ing, and then General Macomb rose at his place at the head of the table, his white uniform showing plainly against the darkened outer room, and began to speak. He said in part:—

'Honolulu occupies a unique position among the cities of the nation especially in regard to the number of troops stationed here. The head of those troops should know among other things what the sentiment of the popule here toward public improvements is. In order to do that it is necessary that there he some central body which can give authoritative utterance to the will of the city as a whole. This would enable, what is now taking, coordinais just along the lines proposed by the citizens, and will in time become a part of that work. Another instance of what I mean is the work at Fort Shafter. There the government's task

"There is, for example, the waterfront between Fort Shafter and Fort De Russy; the government is bound to make some improvements there, which will tend to a greater Honolulu. But you success in any line of endeavor. It is must help if you want the best results as valuable to those who are doing if you want a greater Honolulu, you must he united upon something, some plan, for the love of Honolulu, not merely my feeling toward this project. If it for the advancement of business in

'Punchbowl Park, as suggested, for instance, has great value to the troops and great value to the citizens of Honolulu. There is now no place where troops can be brought into the city. No place where they can advantageously be displayed at military or civic parades Such a park would provide such a place.

"The improvements along the city's waterfront would require a little money and cooperation between the government and the citizens. What is needed there is concerted action and I believe that the necessary appropriations could be hurried if some sign of common interest was evinced.

Live Wire Here.

"I have heard much tonight about the live wires in Rochester, Cleveland and elsewhere, but I want to say that there are here in Honolulu just as many live wires as there are in any other city of its size in the country. The trout is is that they are apt to ge short circuited and so waste their ener There is in physics a state of af fairs known as equilibrium. All forces are pulling in all different directions and the result is nil, as the forces counternet each other. That is the state we are in here. Let us get together and begin pulling in the same direction and we will accomplish some

Mr. Galt repeated to some extent the ideas advanced by Mr. Rath. He instanced the recent votes in the cham-ber of commerce and the merchants association on the matter of the coast wise laws, as showing the difficulty in getting together even on vital things. Points a Flaw.

John Lane, declared that "the whole trouble now lies with the chamber of commerce and the merchants' associa-tion. If they will agree to what we have been saying, well and good. If not then all that we have been trying to do tonight is null and void, we have been talking at random." Mr. Ford gave a message from Mr. L. A. Thurston, in which Mr. Thurston said that the Hilo board of trade

"are with you in spirit." Mr. Thurston added that he was also in sympathy with the movement. Mr. Sedgewick then urged the organization of the body be made at once, but withdrew when Mr. Cooke explain-ed the conditions under which the meeting was held. Bishop Restarick prom-ised to take "my share in the work if the chamber is formed," and Bishop Libert urged the gathering to "go slowly and grow slowly and strong." Editor Talks.

Doctor Scudder spoke of the need for getting closer to the people, and re-ferred to the influence that the New England town meeting has had upon the life of the entire country. W. R. Farrington, editor of the Bulletin, declared that General Macomb had hit the nail on the head when he declared that all elements must be included in

Walter G. Smith, of the Star, also spoke, urging that Hawaii build up oth-er industries than sugar "so we shall not have all our eggs in one basket."
S. Sheba, editor of the Hawaii Shin-

po, declared that recently he had de-cided to remain in Hawaii, "and not to return to Japan again. If then Hawaii exercises such a charm and attraction for a man who can never hope to become a citizen I can easily picture the wonderful love you, who are its citi-zens, must have for it. Let us have harmony of the races here and we shall see Hawaii come into its own.

MAUI TAX APPEAL COURT IS NAMED

Acting Governor Mott-Smith appointed the three members of the tax appeal court yesterday, who will have full power to adjust the assessments on property on the Island of Maui. The appointees are Judge Mackay, George Weight and Patrick Cockett. It will be their duty to investigate the claims of all property owners who have filed objections to the recent assessments and to decide upon the justice of these assessments and in cases where they believe the tax levy unjust to reassess the property or arrange a compromise. The judges for the settlement of similar claims on the islands of Hawaii and Oahu will not be appointed until after June 1.
